

The Ingalls Family –
Early Settlers in the Greenville, New York, Area

By Paige Ingalls,
with research provided by Garth Bryant

January 8, 2025

Addendum

On January 12, 2025, Kenneth Mabey, historian of local history and family names/relationships, contacted the authors to inform them he thought he knew how Jeremiah (Jerry) Overbaugh (1922 - 2015) may have come to have in his possession the two Indentures discussed in the article.

Per Mr. Mabey, Mr. Overbaugh's wife Dorothy's maiden name was Husted. Based on this, it seems plausible that James Ingalls (Joseph, Jr.'s son and Jacob's younger brother), may have had the Indentures in his possession and, when he died, his daughter Silvey, who married Wilson Husted, inherited them. She, in turn, passed their custody on, and they ended up in the possession of Dorothy E. Husted Overbaugh (1922 – 2009). Mr. Overbaugh then gave them to Walter Ingalls (1930 – 2023) in 2005.

Appreciation is extended to Mr. Mabey for this new information.