Jacob Ingalls
(1764-1841)

married Susannah Goff on October 9, 1793

They settled in Lambs Corners, NY,
in 1793,

at 202 Elm Lane.

Jacob first built a log cabin on this knoll, to the west of the barns and house that would come later.

Jacob and Susannah (Goff)
Ingalls
had five sons:

I. Enoch Ingalls—
(1794-1872)

Moved to Wisconsin in 1850.

II. Henry Ingalls—
(1795-1859)
Lived on the Jacob Ingalls Homestead.

IV. Truman Ingalls— (1801-?)

Lived on the farm once known as the “Harrison Ingalls Place”
in Albany County,

at 478 County Route 403,
Lambs Corners, NY.

Son Truman Ingalls—(1801-?)
had seven children:

1. Leander Ingalls— (1823-1849)

Lived on a farm near Norton Hill, NY, and had no descendants after his daughter Frances E. (Fannie) Ingalls died in 1906.

A photograph of the original farm could not be found, nor is its location known.

2. Lucinda Ingalls Hunt (1826-1896) (married Lorenzo Hunt)—

Lived on a farm near Norton Hill, NY,

at the intersection of Old Plank Road
and
New Ridge Road.

3. Eleanor Ingalls Winegard (1828-1915)

(married Addison Winegard)

Lived on the Winegard farm on Maple Avenue,

just south of the highway from South Westerlo to Lambs Corners,

at 333 Maple Avenue,
Greenville, NY.

4. Diantha Ingalls Smith
(1832-1924)
(married Zoeth Smith)—

Lived on the homestead of her husband's father, Thomas Smith, on the hill about a mile from Cornwallville, NY,

at the foot of the Catskill Mountains.

East Windham High Peak and Mount Zoar are the nearest peaks.

The homestead was later owned and occupied by Miss Jennie Palmer and Wilbur Palmer,

at 276 Strong Road.

The house burned to the ground in the 1970s (?).

This is where the house used to be located.

5. Joseph Truman Ingalls— (1834-1903)

Lived in Norton Hill, NY,

at 6119 State Route 81.

A photograph of the original house could not be found.

This is where the house used to be located, at the top of a small hill.

7. William Henry Harrison
Ingalls
(1841-1918)
(fought in the Civil War)—

Lived on the Truman Ingalls homestead (his father's farm)
at Lambs Corners, NY.

V. Cyrus Ingalls—
(1802-1839)

Lived on the farm on Lot 100 of the Van Rensselaer Patent,

located on top of the hill
west of the horseshoe bend, known in later years as the Edwards' farm, and, later still, owned by Frank Davis.

This was difficult to locate,
because the current road (County Route 403)
no longer follows the horseshow bend.

The horseshoe bend began across from Ingalside Road and went west, up the hill towards Lambs Corners.

A photograph of the original home could not be found.

Son Cyrus Ingalls—(1802-1839)
had one son:

Thaddeus Warsaw Ingalls— (1827-1892)

Lived at Thayer's Corners ,NY,

at 646 County Route 401
(Albany County).

“now, in 2014”

Thaddeus had a son,
also named Cyrus Ingalls—(1851-1922)

who begat
“The Westerlo Branch.”

Cyrus operated a general store at Thayer's Corners.

The store is no longer there.
